Enjoyable Time Had When Vermilion And Edgerton Cadets Visit Local Sea Cadets

The Sea Cadets of R.C.S.C. "Exeter" were here Friday evening to the Vermilion Army Cadets and the Edgerton Army Cadets. The evening started with a soft ball game between the sea cadets and the army cadets. The sea cadets had been left unmentioned but judging from the yells and laughs it certainly was enjoyed by both players and spectators. Incidentally the Sea Cadets won!

Starting at nine a dance was held at the Separate School Hall. The high school girls had previously been invited and we certainly were pleased at the way they turned up. The music was supplied by the Swingers. Bingo dances seemed to get the boys on the floor and a few of the girls changed with Air Force and Air Force with Army added to the general fun.

During an intermission the Chairman of the Sea Cadet Committee presented the Corps with a framed picture of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Crest on behalf of the Navy League of Canada and the Canadian Cadet Officer John MacKenzie received the presentation on behalf of the Corps.

Lunch was served by the Sea Cadet Committee and the dance and our thanks go to the committee for the fine support and organization for the dance. The mothers of the boys can be commended for the fine things they sent. After lunch L. E. Wilson introduced Flying Officer C. Killen of the Vermilion Air Cadets who spoke to the boys, saying he hoped we could have this an annual thing and to see us over at Vermilion again in the fall. Lt. C. Welsh who also expressed the same sentiment as Mr. Killen, also found out that the boys had the biggest boy present (couldn't even sit a uniform) and that the Air

Dr. G. M. ASCHAH HEADS LOCAL SCOUT COMMITTEE

On Sunday afternoon a number of men and women interested in the B.O. 1 gathered at St. Thomas Parish Hall to form an organized committee to back the Boy Scouts of this town. A general discussion of the functions of such a committee took place followed by an election. Dr. Aschah will be president, G. Middleton is vice president, Mrs. C. K. Wacker, will act as secretary, for the Scouts also, and Mr. Walters is the Chaplain.

Way and means of financing the boys in their work were discussed. Their first endeavor will be the operation of a concession on June 1st for the school picnic. Next, it was also decided that the Cubs and Scouts have separate bank accounts.

The feasibility of sending some of the boys to the camp at Sylvan Lake was also discussed. If possible, at least two will go.

A time limit for joining the Scouts was set. Boys 14 to 18 years of age who are interested in the Scouts may join any time now until June 1st.

Those present at the meeting were: Dr. Aschah, Mr. G. Middleton, Mr. J. Davidson, Mr. Dodsworth, Mr. Adams, Mr. Blome, Mr. G. Davis, Mrs. J. Humphries, Mrs. Wacker.

The next meeting will be held in the parish hall, May 18th at 8:00 p.m. If you are interested in this work among our boys, please be on hand and give us your support.

GRACE UNITED CHURCH SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

Wainwright United Church was the scene on Friday, May 5th, of a pretty wedding for a bride and groom. The bride, Miss Patricia Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Paucha of Wainwright, was married to Mr. Ernest Veltch, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Veltch of Wainwright.

Spring flowers decorated the church with pink and white satin bows marking the guest pews, as Rev. M. Dobson united the couple in marriage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white, satin styled on princess lines with lily-point sleeves. The bride's veil was of white net edged in lace. She carried a bouquet of deep red carnations, and her only jewelry was a necklace, gift of the groom.

Miss Grace Marie Paucha was her sister's bridesmaid and wore a pale pink dress with white lace and full skirt, a shoulder length veil and matching pink and white accessories. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Miss Patricia Allen, cousin of the bride, was flower girl wearing a long pale yellow dress of nylon with matching accessories, she carried a nosegay of spring flowers.

Best man was Mr. George Tait, and ushering guests to the pew was Mr. James Veltch, brother of the groom, and Mr. Harold Hathway.

Musical for the wedding was played by Miss Audrey Symes, Mr. Thomas Wirachowsky sang "I Love You Truly" while the register was being signed.

Later a reception for 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George Tindall Jr. and Mrs. George Tindall Jr. and Mrs. George Tindall Jr.

A bride's toast was proposed by the best man and ably answered by the groom.

For a honeymoon the bride changed to a grey gabardine suit with contrasting navy top coat and accessories. A corsage of carnations, completed her ensemble.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Veltch will make their home in the Wainwright district.

Cadets had the smallest cadet present. All in all it was the most successful affair sponsored by the sea cadets in some time and as Mr. Killen suggested, we hope to make it an annual affair. It is a great way of getting the youth of our neighboring towns together.

We were pleased to have with us our former Commanding Officer, Mr. Chas. Wilfritham, and our Midshipman Rob Leckie, who is now a cadet with the University Naval Training Detachment. Rob is leaving for the coast for a summer of naval training. Also present was Mr. J. P. Stinson of Worthington Branch Canadian Legion, Mr. Jack Davidson.

"IT'S A DATE" PROMISES FINE ENTERTAINMENT

The Worthington Branch R.E.S.B. now have plans well under way for the coming presentation of "It's A Date" starting all local talent.

There's an interesting story to "It's A Date" as Joe Brown and his sweetheart Ginger Jones decide to get married, but can't quite agree on the month for the wedding date. What month would you choose for your wedding? What month did you choose?

As scene after scene unfolds we watch Joe and Ginger enact each month of the year as it would appear to their respective friends. The hall was beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers terminating in a big arch across the front of the hall with a large floral arrangement in the center.

Boquets of snapdragons and pink carnations decorated the tables. The bride's table was in white lace, had a three tiered wedding cake at each side, flanked by white taper.

Toasts to the bride were proposed by Monisig Hetherington and Rev. Father J. P. Edmund, to which the bridegroom ably responded. Other toasts were proposed by Mr. Joyce and Mr. Stinert, and J. P. Edmund read congratulatory telegrams from friends and relatives at Rochester, England; Montreal, Calgary and Cavel, Sask.

For a honeymoon reception Miss Florence Riddle sang "Because" accompanied by Miss Betty Joyce at the piano.

At 8 o'clock in the evening more friends gathered at the hall for the wedding dance.

For going away Florence changed to a navy suit and accessories trimmed with white and left Sunday morning for a honeymoon to be spent at the west coast. They expect to take up residence in Edmonton shortly.

MOTHERS' DAY

Mother's love for her children has always been one of the human qualities which has most nearly met the divine. It has inspired a million writers to wax eloquent... and has been the emotion which has stimulated some of the finest of art and music... but to us... here and now... it has a present and vital meaning that gives it a life and importance that never dies. It is not merely a eulogistic thing to be dreamed of by the dreamers, or to be heralded by those with golden tongue and gifted brush... it is a down to earth bit of heaven that, more than anything else on earth makes life worth living and builds each succeeding generation into something much finer and better than it could have been without.

Sunday next has been set aside as a day on which we will do honor to our mothers, and make especially known our appreciation of their devotion to us. However like all days, or weeks, or other occasions, which are designed to stimulate our memories, or our actions, Mothers' Day, if it is to really fulfill its purpose must be but the high point of a whole series of 365 days when we give mother her due.

Most of us humans are pretty forgetful when it comes to those who do good things for us. The more good we receive at the hands of others, the less we appear to appreciate it and the more we take for granted.

Like children, who eat the meals provided for them with enthusiasm and gusto, but rush off well ahead of the job of dish-washing, we too, may easily get into the habit of taking all and returning very little. Not that mother wants a lot... nor that we could hope to repay our debt to her... but that she does so much appreciate the little acts of kindness and thoughtfulness... the deeds of love that cost so little and mean so much. So, how would it be if we could make this Mothers' Day one that mother will really remember... and make each day until next May a day full of happiness for mother?

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Mr. H. Aldridge provided a considerable amount of food for thought in his discussion of Vocational Guidance at the meeting of the Home and School Association a week ago. From his remarks it was gathered that those who lay out the course of studies for our schools are keenly aware of their duty in the practical field of insuring that students are given information that will assist them in their selection of a vocation and in avoiding errors which often result in dissatisfaction and a waste of time and talents.

The importance of vocational guidance has been greatly increased in recent years due largely to the different situation in which the young people of today find themselves. Not many years ago the natural first choice of the young man was to follow in his father's footsteps, and the young lady, unless she was unusually ambitious devoted much of her attention to preparing herself for marriage. The boys who did not feel inclined to follow their father's trade had ample opportunities to do their experimenting at an early age, for nearly every business and some of the professions provided employment for boys of school age in their spare time and on Saturdays and holidays. Thus engaged, the lad had an intimate connection with the workaday world which labor regulations refuse to the modern lad. Moreover the years of schooling were generally shorter and the young man was on his own in lots of time to do a little "roaming" for himself.

Moreover the regulations which apply to tradesmen were either absent or far less stringent. There was nothing to prevent a smart young chap from entering such professions as auto mechanics, welding, electrical work, radio work, and a host of other types of work as soon as he had gained a sufficient amount of information and dexterity. Today all this is changed, and there are all sorts of government tests and regulations which require apprenticeships and periods of training under those who hold certificates of proficiency.

These features, particularly the regulations which make it hard for boys to work at the various trades, make it much more difficult and costly for the young man to find his trade by the trial-and-error method, and underline the desirability of the selection of the proper trade the first time and without any actual experience.

The various means that are to be used in the future to make this possible are interesting and should be of material assistance. These will include a compulsory high school course which reveals to the professional group into which their particular abilities fit them, and induces them to give consideration to the various types of employment available in that group.

Unfortunately we are living in a very material age... perhaps you would call it an enlightened age... when the desirability of most employment is measured largely by the monetary rewards it offers. If the vocational guidance program is to properly serve its purpose it must be prepared to divorce itself in some measure from the pecuniary and hold up as its ideal a greater measure of perfection and accomplishment. Unfortunately we cannot all enter into top-pay professions. A very large number of the boys, and girls, who leave high school must be prepared not only to accept, but to enjoy and make a life's work of, professions and vocations which do not promise top-bracket financial rewards. These people must be stimulated, if possible, to realize that only in perfection and contentment can they find satisfaction... that a good workman in any job is better than a poor workman, and that eventually he will stand a good chance of being rewarded according to his ability.

Mediocrity has always been a curse, and its evils have made it perhaps a greater handicap than the figurative square peg in the round hole situation... a condition which, in our belief, greatly overrated in its evils.

The Law Of Diminishing Return

The dictionary defines the "law of diminishing return" as "the law that an increase of capital or labor applied beyond a certain point causes a less than proportionate increase in production." Recently many Canadians gave thought, and voice, to the application

I've Been Thinking

How Long Can We Keep Them In School
H. G. Teskey

Statistics reveal that only about twenty percent of our young people ever finish grade twelve. From the time they reach the age of fifteen years there is a gradual, but rapid, diminution in the number of students. The greatest casualty list appears in grade IX because at that stage most students become fifteen, have reached the school leaving age and have attained to a sufficient degree of manhood to get a job.

The casualty list among boys is much greater than among girls. Approximately two thirds of high school students are girls. The reason is not far to seek; boys can more readily secure employment. Much help as girls of the age can give their parents can be largely given out of school hours. And baby-sitting, a common employment, is done in the evenings. Then too, to find a permanent position, girls generally are required to have a higher educational standard. The common female occupations of teaching, nursing and stenography require all, or a major part, of high school training.

Why do so many students leave school at such an immature age? To find the fault (if fault it is) we must look to the schools, the attitude of parents and children, and to our society as a whole.

A common criticism of our schools is that they offer too impractical courses to appeal to adolescents. Parents, and others, frequently suggest that the schools should offer much more training of a technical nature such as Shop and Home Economics courses. Agriculture, Commercial courses, Occupational Guidance, etc. The list might be extended to include such as Car Driving, Deportment, Charm and Personality. One year ago in this column I discussed the question, "How Practical Should Education Be?" I shall not repeat what I then wrote, but shall consider how popular are the practical courses that are now being offered or have been offered in our own school. At times we have had difficulty inducing enough students to take Shop and Home Economics to make up classes of seven or eight. We have discontinued Stenography for lack of students. Bookkeeping is not popular at present, though it was once very popular. Typewriting classes are usually full and sometimes there is a waiting list. But, speaking generally, these courses have been more popular than by our students than have the more academic courses.

The general conclusion that may be drawn from our experience is that students will take the practical courses if they are easy; but if the courses require considerable study and hard work, they go to begging for students. And is this not what should be expected considering that children are like adults in their desire to avoid difficult and disagreeable things. Children are (Continued on page six) of this ancient law in terms of the relations between risk capital and the future of our country. Fortunately for all of us, the Hon. D. C. Abbott, Minister of Finance, indicated clearly in his Budget Speech that the federal government is fully aware of the inevitable workings of this inexorable law.

A few days before the budget was brought down, newspaper stories from Ottawa reported that the income tax department appeared to be planning to levy what amounted to a tax on capital gains. The details of the particular case that gave rise to the newspaper speculation are of less importance than the details of outcry that resulted. Canada, it was pointed out by some thoughtful citizens, is still a young country, still in need of investment of great sums of capital if it is to reach its maximum development. Ottawa, it was said, by allowing certain tax deductions on earnings of stocks had already established the principle of encouraging investment here at job-making capital. Parliament, it was claimed, has not given and probably would not give official sanction to a tax on capital gains. Finally, it was said, if capital gains tax would bring into play the law of diminishing return, the tax might gain a few immediate dollars in government revenue, but its application would discourage the investment of the risk dollars that alone can continue to increase the wealth and standard of living of all Canadians.

The whole affair might be raised as a tempest in a tea pot, or at most an instance of a trial balloon being raised aloft. But no matter what the cause of the outcry, the public attention that has been focused on Canada's continuing need for risk capital is a worthwhile thing.

Master Farm Family Award Competition

The Department of Agriculture is again sponsoring the Master Farm Family award in the province in order to award merit to families in the advancement of Agriculture in the province that have contributed to the province.

As was the case last year, the nominations into this competition must be made by farmers. Two men must nominate a third for this competition. If they feel he may be in line for this award.

Five master farmers will be named in the province this year from zones that represent the soil-climatic zones as closely as possible.

TRASH COVER VS BLACK SUMMERFALLOW

The merits of a trash cover on summerfallow are many. Two of the most important are the lessening of erosion and the increase of water holding capacity of the soil.

Trash cover as the name indicates means leaving the stubble on the top of the soil rather than working it deep or turning it under. The use of such implements as blade weeder, row weeders, cultivators will leave this trash on top. Plows and tillers will turn it under.

The principal of greater water holding capacity is readily explained. The straw colored surface of the soil reflects light and heat from the sun keeping the ground cooler than a black surface that absorbs light and heat. The trash on top permits faster penetration of moisture in the soil and holds the moisture that falls allowing little or no run off.

Prevention Of Diseases In Range Sheep

Experienced help and provision of adequate shelter will assure against loss due to unfavorable weather in the lambing and shearing season.

In order to prevent a deficiency of phosphorus characterized by depraved appetite and listlessness, bonemeal may be supplied to the sheep in wood-tongs alone, or in mixture with the salt, at the rate of 3 pounds salt to one pound bonemeal. Granulated stock salt should be placed in boxes at frequent intervals in order to keep it clean and it should be available at all times. In those regions where gutter is prevalent, dissolve one ounce potassium iodide in water and mix with 100 pounds salt. As salts of iodine distribute readily, it is not advisable to mix more than 2 weeks supply at one time. If cobalt deficiency in the forage is suspected, one ounce cobalt sulphate can be mixed with one pound salt. To date, definite cobalt deficiency areas in Western Canada have not been established.

Manititis (inflammation of the udder) is fairly common after lambing. The udder becomes swollen and hot, and red in color. The affected animals and their lambs should be promptly isolated. The lambs can be bottle-fed for a few days on cow's milk. Milk out the udder at frequent intervals and apply cloths soaked in hot water several times daily. An alternative is to massage thoroughly using oil or vaseline. A lubricant in order to keep up the circulation of the blood in the udder. Otherwise gangrene, commonly called Blue-Flag, may develop necessitating surgical removal of the udder. It is wise to cull ewes in the fall if their udders are not sound.

Soremouth will give lambs a severe setback. Tests at Manyberries and elsewhere have shown that this disease can be prevented by vaccinating at docking time. The vaccine is made from scabs taken from active cases of soremouth. If vaccinating has not been done at docking it may be done in the early fall before the lambs go into the feedlot. In order to secure this vaccine it is necessary to collect a quantity of scabs from infected lambs. This material should be forwarded to the Veterinary Laboratory, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, or to the Veterinary Research Station, Lethbridge. When applied to a scratch on the skin on the inside of the leg, vaccination results in a "take" similar to that produced when humans are vaccinated for small pox.

From time to time losses are caused by plant poisoning, most commonly from consumption of Death Camas. The chief reason for plant poisoning in sheep is lack of grass. If sheep are turned out in the spring before there is adequate growth they will hunt for any available green feed. Supplementary feeding at this time is recommended. One half pound linseed oil cake per ewe will balance the diet and encourage milk flow.

For treatment in case of internal parasites, Phenothiazine tablets are used, obtainable from qualified veterinarians. Certain definite rules should be followed and for this reason a veterinarian should be consulted. Dipping or spraying sheep will control ticks and ticks. The spraying method is easier on the sheep than dipping and results in less labor. All forms of sheep dip including D.D.T. solutions can be applied with a power sprayer.

Seasonal Poultry Hints

With the arrival of warmer weather and in the usual rush of preparing for spring work, there may be a tendency on the part of the flock owner to neglect his chicks. F. F. Higginson, Acting Poultry Commissioner, advises that at this time of the year care should be taken to avoid the dangers that come from overcrowding. It is very desirable to provide a clean porch so that chicks can be hardened off a little before being taken out to the range.

The change over from chick starter to growing mash should be made very gradually and not before the chicks are about eight weeks of age. At this age also a trough of heavy whole oats should be made available to the chicks at all times. Care should be taken to see that clean range is available; about one acre of alfalfa would provide pasture for about three hundred chicks.

Flock owners, at this time, should be constantly on the lookout for any sign of trouble, for with warm, damp weather Coccidiosis very often develops. If you notice that your chicks are losing their appetite appear droopy and there is any sign of blood in the droppings, corrective measures should be taken at once. Sulpha drugs, preferably

Cull The Poor Layers

Economy of production is always an essential feature of any stable industry. When that industry is in a comparatively prosperous state, with regard to sales and prices, producers can still obtain reasonable returns even though they have overlooked certain features which are increasing their costs and reducing their net income. When prices drop, these people are the first to feel the effect and are therefore the ones who will have to improve their methods, take a loss, or go out of business.

Looking at the expense side of the ledger of a poultry farm, the first item that strikes the eye is feed costs. We know from results of research and experience that it is not good policy to feed inferior rations. We can cut costs somewhat during the growing season with good pasture, but the optimum protein level and other important ingredients are essential for egg production. Also, the quantity of laying mash given to layers must not be restricted in fact they should be encouraged to eat as much as possible. The next consideration, and the crucial one, is whether the quantity of eggs produced is sufficient for the amount of feed used.

Probably the greatest waste on many farms occurs from carrying birds, frequently termed "boarders" which are not paying for their keep. Says A. B. Johnson, Poultry Division Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Since these birds can be identified by certain physical characteristics, they should be picked out and sold for what they will bring rather than maintained at additional expense with no very little return. Even though they may not be worth much as market birds, it costs too much to keep them. A few unpromising birds can be eliminated in the fall at the time of housing. Since more than half of a bird's feed is required for maintenance these birds cost almost as much to keep as those which are in heavy production.

A poor or non-layer is usually characterized by a sluggish, dull appearance or, on the contrary, an extremely nervous one as sometimes observed in birds which are in a moult. Such birds usually retire to roosts early in the afternoon or are found there at any time on entering the pen. On the contrary, heavy layers will be busy feeding or scratching in the litter. Non-layers can be distinguished, without handling, by the appearance of their combs. These are shrunken, scaly and pale in colour as opposed to the bright red, waxy, enlarged comb of the producer. In breeds which are generally yellow shanked, the yellow colour comes out with egg production. Thus a bird showing deep yellow in her shanks will usually be either a non-layer or will have just started laying. Her feathers will be oily and sleek whereas if a bird has dry, broken feathering it is usually an indication that she is more than paying for her keep. By the above characteristics the "boarders" can be spotted even without handling.

Birds can be caught up by fencing in the corner of a pen with wire panels. This should be done in the afternoon when they are not laying as heavily as should be done carefully in order to disturb them as little as possible. The culls may be placed in a crate nearby but the desirable birds placed back in the pen; another alternative is to do this at night using a flashlight. In handling, the unproductive birds which were not spotted before can be removed. Those that are very light and are therefore likely to go into a moult should go out. Good thrifty layers are usually in good condition but not over fat. The condition of the abdomen is a good indication of production. If the skin is hard, drawn up, and the pelvic bones are drawn close together, leaving little abdominal capacity, such a bird is a deflator rather than an asset.

Broody hens should be marked when they are released from the broody coops. If they are frequent offenders they should be marketed.

In spite of good methods of feeding and management, there will be those birds which do not respond and should be removed. Culling is another important step toward high efficiency of production.

Hello Homemakers: As soon as you are through shipping eggs—especially those of you who ship for Hatchery purposes you will likely be clearing out a number of your old flocks.

Sometimes if you have unexpected company it is handy to have some canned chicken available. If you would like instructions on canning chicken please write for the Dominion Department of Agriculture bulletin "How to can chicken".

When spring gets so close we begin to think of rhubarb. Remember, if you have a locker that rhubarb freezes well. Macdonald rhubarb is an excellent freezer while Ruby is also very good. As fresh rhubarb is best if picked when young and tender, so the best results in freezing are obtained from this same young, tender product.

We have a bulletin of rhubarb recipes in which you may be interested and our canning bulletin is still available. The rhubarb recipes include some recipes for marmalades, jellies, etc. as well as for desserts for immediate use. All bulletins are available free of charge by writing to my office. If you would like to know just what bulletins are available please write for the new 1948 list of bulletins.

Coccidiosis In Chicks

The best way to fight coccidiosis on an average farm is by trying to prevent it, says Dr. C. H. Bigland, Veterinary Pathologist of Poultry Diseases, Alberta Department of Agriculture. The most common form of coccidiosis in chicks is the caecal or "bloody" form.

Every effort should be made to prevent coccidiosis. Get the chicks down on the floor as early as your brooding arrangement makes it possible, advises Dr. Bigland. Put down plenty of dry litter and keep it dry. This establishes a good deep litter early. Rite frequently one pound of hydrated lime for each 4 square feet will help to keep it dry.

If wet spots appear, remove the damp spot immediately and replace with dry litter. Put water fountains on a wire stand. This will keep chicks away from wet areas around the fountain.

Avoid overcrowding. Allow 1/2 square foot for chicks up to 4 weeks, 1 square foot for chicks up to 8 weeks, and 1 1/2 square feet for chicks up to 12 weeks. Keep the brooder well ventilated and dry.

When on range allow 1 acre for each 200 birds. Maintain a good sod and avoid bare spots. Fill in or drain low spots and puddles. Move feed troughs and water fountains daily.

Cattle Cycle

Cattle numbers in the United States as at January 1, 1950, totalled 80,377,000 as compared with 78,392,000 on January 1, 1949. The United States Department of Agriculture says this marks a definite upswing in the cattle cycle. If the 1949 rate of increase continued, cattle numbers by 1952 or 1953 will likely set a new record. Beef production in 1950 may be no larger than in 1949 but from then on larger cattle production will be reflected in an increasing output of beef and veal.

Jr. F.U.A. 'Hayseeders'

The regular meeting of the Junior F.U.A. was held at the home of Frank Daugherty on May 3. Roll Call was answered by Your Favorite Radio Program. Twelve members and four visitors were present.

The minutes were read and found correct. A financial report was given by the secretary on the dance recently held in Trafalgar Hall.

The next meeting will be at the home of Betty Taylor on May 12. The meeting adjourned and a delicious lunch was served.

O.O.R.P. Notes

Seventeen members of the local Lodge attended an initiation meeting in Vermilion. A good time was enjoyed by all present.

Five dollars was donated to the Cancer Fund. At the last regular meeting plans were made to raise money for the Crippled Children's Fund.

Kenn Tory Enjoys Fishing and Fun At Powell River Home

While in Vancouver on business recently, Kenn Tory enjoyed a busy holiday for a week on Nelson Island. In 1943 he purchased a 5 acre camp with a log cabin on Hidden Bay. Leaving Vancouver at noon Saturday, the U.S. boats to Powell River, etc., stop at the new float in Billings Bay at 7 p.m. There is a vicious narrow entrance to Hidden Bay that makes the passage possible only at tide change. Twice during the week the small motor boat engine was stalled and Kenn was treated to a hazardous boat ride back through the rapids. In the comfortable homes on the little bays several war "amps" families find they can live leisurely and well on about $10.00 a month. Gardens yield very well. Food is for the taking as Kenn reports that after watching Douglas fir logging operations one afternoon he picked up three dozen spruce off the beach on the way home. Deer and grouse are plentiful right in the back yard.

Trotting for salmon about 350 yards from the beach Kenn had begunners luck in hooking a 20-lb. salmon. An elderly lady visiting a neighbor landed a 28-lb. spring salmon the night before.

Kenn reports that a thrill while trolling later with a small canoe, for each time he felt a bite, he hoped it was a big one and then queried, "Well a fish, do it is a big salmon!" The evening's fishing produced 3 fine salmon. The weather was like summer and Carl Tory went swimming in a lake there. To prove that community spirit exists the same everywhere three neighbors came in their motor boats to take the party to meet the "Cardena" on Sunday night. The demand for good small acreages up the B.C. coast is keen with very high prices being obtained.

TOWN TOPICS

It was stimulating to hear the discussion of town problems at the Chamber of Commerce meeting the other night, and to realize that so many people are vitally interested in cleaning up our town and making it a better place in which to live. The whole clean up picture from the shops, basements up stairs and open basements to garbage, slops and weeds was given a thorough going over and if the enthusiasm shown in speech is transferred to action this would seem to be the year for the face lifting.

Unfortunately those citizens whose establishments create the worst eyes-ores were not there, but the bets are that there were some burning area that evening. The Chamber decided to strongly advise the town fathers to take whatever legal steps are possible to deal with these much talked about situations.

Enthusiasm on the clean-up campaign ran hot and cold. Some felt that garbage collection is strictly a town responsibility and they'd be darned if they would clean up someone else's mess. The majority took the other view and decided to try to organize a general clean-up and then see whether or not the town garbage contractor with the co-operation of the citizens could keep it clean.

Most of our problems could be solved if a proper approach was made to the persons responsible for the problems.
Enough comments by a group of neighbors to the man himself might shame him into activity. If this didn't work then a petition by those neighbors to the Town Council would give that body the authority to act. In most cases some part of the public health or public safety act can be used as a lever—or then there is the much talked about public nuisance act which actually isn't as easily applied as most people think.

A good point that came out of the debate is the need of a zoning by-law to keep machine-shops, chicken-yards, animal enclosures, and so on out of the residential area, as well as to prevent someone hauling an old shack into town and planting it among some well kept homes. It would seem at this point to be like locking the door after the horse is stolen, but the supply of shacks seems to be unlimited and it would at least protect those who build in the future.

It was reported that the Building Code and Zoning By-law prepared by the National Research Council in Ottawa was being studied and might be applied here, and this brought forth a motion commending Council on this action. It was also pointed out that money is made available for weed control and would be used this year.

While from an innocent bystander point of view the meeting was probably rather dull as very little was decided, it was certainly the opposite for those of us who are trying to maintain tidy property in this town. It raised our hopes that maybe, if all this wasn't just talk, something will be done to remove some of our persistent nuisances and make Wainwright cleaner.

WITH U.N. IN NORTHERN GREECE—I

Like Firemen, Observers Stay Alert

By a Special U.N. Correspondent

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following eye-witness report by a United Nations correspondent is the first of a series, telling how the U.N. Special Committee for the Balkans (UNSCOB) carries on its watch-dog duties in over-ruled northern Greece. UNSCOB was set up by the U.N. General Assembly in 1947 to report on incidents along the northern frontiers of Greece and to conciliate Greece with neighboring Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.)

ATHENS.—"Members of observation groups will be guided by the fact that they are working for the highest international body, the United Nations. They should conduct their work with complete impartiality and the utmost discretion."

These words are from the Manual for Observers, drawn up by the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans (UNSCOB), on which the representatives of nine countries now serve. It is only as this ideal is realized in practice that UNSCOB is able successfully to carry out its watch-dog duties for the UNSCOB Observation Group plays a vital role as the eyes and ears of the Committee, supplying it with a steady stream of detailed, objective reports, bearing on border violations and other similar incidents, on which the Committee must base its findings and recommendations for the United Nations General Assembly.

Now that large-scale fighting has ended in northern Greece, the work of UNSCOB's international group of observers is no longer the highly hazardous occupation it was but a few months ago. But there is still more than enough work to keep them busy.

"We are like firemen," one French observer says. "At times it may look as if we're doing nothing, but when an emergency arises everyone is thankful we're ready."

The UNSCOB Observation Group, which has very limited means, must solve constant problems of transport, communications and supply to keep its field observation teams mobile along the entire length of Greece's mountainous northern frontier.

The ingenuity of the Observation Group is tested to the limit when, as recently, it must organize and provide for far-ranging tours of inspection by the members of UNSCOB who periodically look into the situation in the field for themselves. It is no easy task to provide adequate accommodation and food in small frontier towns for a large group of representatives of nine sovereign nations, accompanied by advisers and U.N. secretaries.

The Chief Observer, moreover, must combine administrative ability with the patience and tact of a skilled diplomat. Without the powers of a military commander, he must deal successfully with individual authorities and with individual characteristics of the 20-odd observers under him, hailing from many different countries, while carrying out the policies laid down by the Committee.

It is a mark of the efficiency of UNSCOB's Observation Group that a recent, closely-timed, five-mile, seven-day tour of inspection by the Committee was carried out without a hitch, without a single delay.

The only casualty was a donkey, apparently bent on suicide, who ran a jeep driven by this correspondent.

ment in the weltschmerz section and Cantor, who fight both in North America and Britain, got an honorable mention among the lightweight.

Boxing generally has remained in fairly poor shape for almost a decade now. The game needs new blood, new toughness. Whether it will bounce back to greater prominence and class is to be seen.

But perhaps there's a bid for each division starting his long climb to the top in some small-town ring right now. And perhaps in a year or two he'll get there. The fight fans are waiting for him.

Domestic Training Proves Unpopular

Blomfontein, South Africa—Many South African girls are in revolt again at domestic training, according to the department of education.

A memorandum drawn up by the department says that the increasing popularity of these courses is a general phenomenon of the department's institutions. The position has got so bad that at two domestic and industrial girls' schools, the number of pupils has dropped by half.

At the domestic schools were established 50 years ago, the courses at-

Two Photographers Johnny-on-the-Spot

Johannesburg, South Africa—Some motorists who watched an airplane crash race to the scene and were startled to find two press photographers already taking pictures.

"How did you get here so fast," they asked. The photographers replied that they had been passengers in the plane. It had been chartered to take them to Diephuisland in connection with the Boreas Khama affair, but crashed shortly after taking off from German Airport. Neither the photographers nor the plane's two-man crew were injured.

FRIENDLINESS AN ASSET
Most industrial heads move their plant to new communities because they fall in with the way of life in those communities, not because of economic factors—A friendly, welcome and a friendly face is often a greater asset to a community than a strategic location.

The Week at Ottawa

More Canadian Exports

Signs that Canada is capturing a larger share of the world's markets were evident in a report from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics last week.

Reporting a five-per-cent increase in Canadian exports during March over the corresponding month last year, the bureau recorded a major gain on the United States market. Domestic exports to the U.S. were valued at $154,311,000 in March compared with $128,419,000 in March, 1949. The aggregate value of exports to the U.S. in January, February and March was $414,909,000 compared with $345,180,000 a year before.

Whither Fish Hatcheries?

Senator Tom Reid (L.-British Columbia) thinks nature can do a better job in fish than any fish hatchery devised by man.

"There has been a lot of hokey talk about hatcheries," Senator Reid told the Senate resources committee.

He is Canadian chairman of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, which regulates salmon fishing on the west coast.

The commission, he said, hopes eventually to be able to eliminate salmon hatcheries along the Pacific coast. Fish experts are conducting spawning experiments to try to build up depleted spawning grounds. If the experiment prove successful, it should be possible within a few years to begin reducing the number of hatcheries and eventually to eliminate them.

Rapid improvement in the unemployment situation in Canada from mid-

April on was predicted by the Labor Department in a periodic report.

At March 10, it was said, 182,216 Canadians were seeking work through National Employment Service offices. There was a slight improvement during the last two weeks of March, and it was expected the total number of job seekers "would drop rapidly" after April 15.

The department said the improvement was due to a continued sharp decline in the number of persons seeking work on the west coast together with new openings in industries such as electrical apparatus, men's clothing, some primary textiles and preliminary work on the oil pipeline in Alberta.

What Price a Rubber Dollar?

Fun-loving Jean Francois Pouliot, veteran Liberal member from Temiskaming, Que., brought a rubber dollar into the Commons chamber and tossed off a lecture from Social Credit Leader Stott Low.

Mr. Pouliot playfully stretched and re-stretched the rubber dollar while John Blackmore (S.C.-Lebanon) was talking on Social Credit money theories. Then he sent it across the floor to Mr. Low.

When Mr. Blackmore sat down, Mr. Low got up, and waving the dollar aloft, said: "This is the kind of money we are using today."

Under the present money system, he said one dollar of gold deposit could be stretched to $44 worth of purchasing power.

"You can stretch it and stretch it," he declared, "but be careful it doesn't snap back and snap your head off."

Weather "Probs" Aid Farmers In War On Plant Disease

WASHINGTON—Government scientists believe they are making gains against one of the great farming hazards—"mildew disease" or blight.

The trick is in a special forecasting system designed to help United States farmers cope more effectively with mildew-type diseases which can riden potatoes, tomatoes, tobacco, watermelons and cantaloupes crops.

The new system was conceived in 1944, when a late tomato blight caused an estimated $40,000,000 loss. The plant disease survey of the United States department of agriculture set up a "reporting service"—designed to forecast the occurrence and spread of such diseases and to outline steps to fight them.

Co-operating are the United States Weather Bureau which supplies weather data, the National Agricultural Chemical Association and the Farm Equipment Institute.

Dr. Paul Miller, director of the plant disease survey, has this to say:

"It's pretty hard to give specific figures on the results of the program. But since its inauguration in 1944 there has been a steady decrease in tomato, potato, watermelon and cantaloupe blight. So for tobacco blue mould, the indication is that it can be pretty well controlled if growers follow the directions furnished in the forecasting system."

Certain sprays and dusts offer possibilities of control if applied in time. So the idea behind the program is to tip the farmer off at the right time and to make sure that the proper equipment and supplies are available in the farmer's area.

The program is also designed to save the farmer time, energy and money. That is, if the indications are that his crop is not threatened at a particular time, he can devote his efforts to other jobs on his acreage.

Weather data is important for this reason.

Under certain temperature and humidity conditions, the white spore growth of mildew—sometimes called "the cigarette fungus"—will strike at the plants. Under muggy, coolish overcast weather the blight can completely strip plants of their foliage in two weeks time.

Potent spores have been known to travel on air currents for 30 to 35 miles. An advance warning of where the disease is present, the severity of its attack and prevailing weather conditions over the area involved are thus very desirable facts to know.

Advice on disease control measures—or advice not to spray or dust—depends on local weather conditions, expected rainfall or cool temperatures.

Experts at the Beltsville Md. station of the department of agriculture correlate weather information with the reports they have from the field about mildew occurrence. Then, twice weekly they send messages to key plant-disease men and fungicide and farm equipment associations in all areas.

The idea is to give the low-down on probable conditions. Depending on the urgency of the situation, messages are sent by radio, telegram or letter. The information is sifted down to county agents, manufacturers and dealers and state pathologists—and eventually to the growers.

The "Shanty Roof"

"Shanty Roof" is the name given to the crust which forms on the surface of unprotected soil. This crust is almost impervious to water and consequently it is an important contributing factor to accelerated water erosion. Raindrops falling directly on bare soil break down and separate the soil particles. The fine particles are washed into the small surface spaces and pores, thus forming a seal—a tight impervious crust—over the surface of the soil. Water intake, as a result, is greatly reduced. The formation of this crust or "shanty roof" greatly aggravates the severity of the erosion problem. Many factors contribute to the formation of a shanty roof. A few important ones are dealt with here.

CULTIVATION. A certain amount of cultivation is necessary for the preparation of a seed bed and for weed control. However, there is efficient cultivation and inefficient or destructive cultivation. The use of the one-way, the disc harrow, or the drag harrow at high speeds is extremely destructive of soil fibre and structure. Such practices grind the soil to a powder. Rain falling on pulverized soil causes it to "puddle". The final result is the formation of a shanty roof.

ORGANIC MATTER CONTENT. The water absorbing and storing capacity of a soil is largely determined by its organic matter content. The organic matter (plant and animal residues) also affects greatly the physical condition or structure of the soil. Soil which is low in organic matter pulverizes readily to form a shanty roof. The importance of maintaining an abundant supply of organic matter in the soil cannot be over-emphasized. UNPROTECTED SOILS. Nature protects the soil by a vegetative cover. Unprotected soil is exposed to the beating action of the rain, and the drifting action of the wind. These forces break up the surface soil and pulverize it and are important factors in the formation of a shanty roof.

The problem of preventing the formation of a shanty roof and reducing the eroding action of run-off is influenced by many conditions which cannot be adequately dealt with here. However, one of the most effective practices for preventing a shanty roof is the use of a trash cover.

BENEFITS OF TRASH COVER

The maintenance of a trash cover, besides adding a certain amount of fertility to the soil, will enable the soil to absorb more moisture and reduce greatly the losses from soil erosion. It offers the following distinct advantages: (1) It prevents, to a large extent, the pounding action of falling raindrops, thus preventing the formation of a shanty roof. (2) It forms a mechanical barrier—a multitude of small dams in the field—which slows down the flow of water, and allows more water to soak into the ground. (3) The numerous pieces of stubble, etc., anchored in the soil surface, provide channels through which water can percolate into the ground.

Investigations have been made to compare the water absorbing capacity and erosion losses of bare soils having a shanty roof, and on similar soils with a trash cover. The results are startling. In one typical experiment the soil received some 4 inches of rain. On the bare soil only 1 inch of this rain was absorbed, whereas the soil which was protected by a trash cover absorbed no less than 3½ inches of moisture. Even more important was the comparative loss of soil. From the bare fallow, 13 tons of soil per acre were washed away. On the trash cover field less than one ton of soil per acre was lost. In other words, the use of a good trash cover saved over 3 inches of rainfall, and 12 tons of precious top soil per acre.

USE GRASSES AND LEGUMES

Old, worn out, pulverized soils need grasses and legumes to restore fibre, to increase fertility and to improve their physical condition. The proper farm rotation which includes grasses and legumes is fundamental in erosion control. A trash cover in addition, however, will give the most effective protection from drifting winds and lashing rain. It costs little and is effective. Maintain a good trash cover on your soil all summer and save tons of precious top soil.

Growing Discontent

The news tells us that some discontent is growing about the Government's compulsion over farmers. At Winnipeg, Man., a short time ago 400 farmers declared the Government the Saskatchewan Government in removing from its Natural Products Marketing Act a Clause which required that the Government should hold a referendum of farmers' opinions before the Government took over any product. 362 of the farmers present agreed to a resolution of protest. In Manitoba, 5,000 farmers signed petitions asking to be allowed to sell their coarse grains to the Board, or to whoever else cared to buy them. So a bill was introduced into the Manitoba Legislature to remove Manitoba coarse grains from Compulsory Marketing by the Wheat Board. The new bill was given a six months' holiday but several who voted against it stated that it was apparent that more and more farmers were becoming dissatisfied with Compulsory State Marketing. The whole matter is becoming complicated by the dissatisfaction of Eastern feeders who complain about the high prices they have to pay for coarse grains. Mr. William Bryce, Member of Parliament, recently asked the Government to set up a Board to investigate the whole matter of the purchase and sale of Western grains. The Government no doubt will do what ever it believes the majority of farmers desire.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

The Australian Wheat Board announced recently that Britain has purchased some 22,496,000 bushels of wheat. The wheat shipped to Britain will be about $1.91 a bushel FOB Australia; that which is shipped to ports west of the Bues and the Persian Gulf about $1.95 a bushel and for wheat shipped elsewhere about $2.50 a bushel.

The world's corn production was recently estimated at 5,500 million bushels. Though this is 440 million bushels less than the record crop harvested last year it is the second largest crop ever produced. This is 300 million bushels larger than the previous harvest due mainly to the large increase of production in North America.

"My wife is a remarkable cook," said the city man. "She's always trying out some new recipe. Yesterday she sent a friend who had lived in the East and gave her a recipe for Chinese trifles. So she made it."

"What did it taste like?" asked the listener.

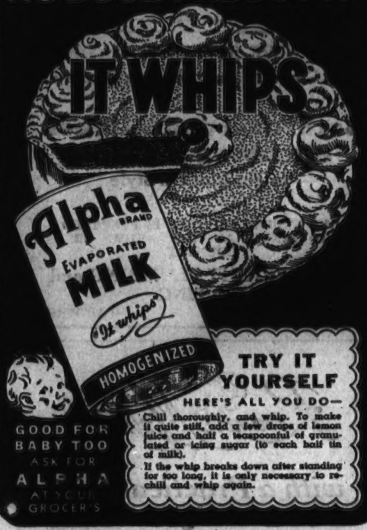

"Rice pudding."

Westminster Sunday School Carrying On Work of Church

The boys and girls of the Sunday School are helping to carry on the work of the church. On Sunday, May 14, they are honoring "Mother" with a special church service in the Westminster Presbyterian church at 11 a.m. All parents and anyone interested in Sunday School and the work that is being done are cordially invited to attend this service. Special Mother's Day Music will be presented.

EDINGLASSIE

We welcome Mr. Cochrane, the student minister to our midst. Sunday School started two weeks ago and church services were held last Sunday at Edinglassie.

A "back to the land movement" is the order of the day. Saskatchewan received some good Social Credit dust this week but its well under control now and much of it seeded down. Now the familiar hymn issues from many lips—"But For the Showers we Pray".

Bella Petric returned to Lament to resume nursing duties the first of May after spending a two weeks holiday with her parents.

Flu, measles and fever are still rampant in the district. Among the latest victims are Mrs. Burton, Betty Allen, Richard Perry, Jackie Gibb, Mrs. Pitman and Little Harry Foged.

Spad Dixon has moved a house up to his quarter and is busy farming there.

On Wednesday night, May 3, Edinglassie school was the scene of a social in honor of Rev. Grove. Original plans were for a fare-thee-well, but since the future is still undecided a good crowd gathered to show their respect and esteem.

A lively time was spent in relays, contests, and races. The ministers and a district resident were ceremoniously initiated into the Agriculture Society. Mrs. Foged and Mr. Grove stole the show in the Honeycomb race—in fact our sides ached the next day, but we'd ached the experience may have discouraged our minister from any thoughts of matrimony. The children assisted by Mrs. Foged entertained the crowd with Sunday School choruses and verses, and Harold Taylor favored us with two good renditions on the harmonica.

Before lunch Mr. Grove was presented with a handsome Lefroy watch from the people of the district.

A hymn "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and a prayer brought the evening to a close.

ARMY CONDUCTS "EXERCISE MEASLES" IN MANITOBA

An emergency isolation hospital has been set up at Fort Churchill, Man., by the army medical authorities to take care of an epidemic of measles which broke out among the Indians of the district recently and additional medical staff have been flown in to the northern town to care for sick children. (Left, Nursing Sister) L. D. Matheson of Newcastle, N.B., a member of the permanent medical staff at Fort Churchill is shown above with two of the stricken Indian children, who appear to be recovering rapidly under her care.

CHECK THAT RUMOR, FOLKS! WAHLBERG IS NOT LEAVING!

The rumor that has been passed around the district to the effect that I am selling out and leaving town is entirely false and without foundation.—H. Wahlberg, Chauvin, Alberta.

MARSDEN

The Community Hall Club met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. J. Loy. Mrs. C. Gower reported that good progress was being made on the Cancer Control Fund Canvass.

Reports showed that around $250.00 had been cleared at the Carnival of Fun recently sponsored by the club.

The Club decided to donate $10.00 to the local hospital Board from the Charity Fund.

It was also decided to close out the hospital account by ordering a bed sheet and the tailored waistcoat cut in the amount of about $10.00.

One new member was welcomed at this meeting.

On Wednesday evening the Y.W.A. of the United Church at Unity presented a three-act mystery drama at the hall here sponsored by the W.A. of the Marsden United Church. "For Island" was presented to a well filled hall with a splendid representation from Neilburg. The play was very well presented and a credit to the cast and their director. Lunch was served by the W.A. following the play.

On Friday evening the Marsden Branch of the Canadian Legion sponsored a Band concert put on by the Leashburn Band. The band music was very well received and enjoyed by all present. A dance followed with music by Sammy's Swingers.

The annual Church-W.A. will hold their United Mother's Day Tea, sale of sewing and sale of home cooking in the church basement on Saturday afternoon May 13th from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Donations of articles for the sale table will be appreciated. Come and give the W.A. your support. Don't forget the date May 13th.

Mother's Day May 14th will be observed in the United Church with a Sunday School service and a church service at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening and join us in worshipping God and honoring Mother.

KEEPING THEM CLEAN
Much of the pain, discomfort and poor appearance due to unhealthy teeth is preventable. Dental care should begin in an early age and children should be taught to brush their teeth carefully after every meal. A visit to the dentist at least twice a year is a "must" in a dental care program.

BAIS OF COURTESY
"Please" and "Thank You" in themselves do not mean a great deal, perhaps. But behind these expressions lie the other phases of courtesies. We can be courteous ourselves and thus help to make this a well-managed community.

CLEAN-UP TIME
Progressive communities throughout Canada know well the advantage of a clean, tidy and well-painted town. We urge those who have not yet realized the importance of beautifying the town to give the matter some thought, roll up their sleeves and go to work.

A Home and School Meeting Should be Conducted. This was followed by an excellent National Film Board showing of "Family Circles", now being prepared for use in country picture theatres. The frustration of a child whose parents are too busy to take an interest in his school activities was compared with our country truly recognize the family encourages his educational development.

With the business of the Convention behind them, the delegates relaxed about beautifully decorated tables for the closing banquet. Unique programs appeared in a blue-print folder, follow the theme. The address of the evening given by Mr. Ivan Robinson was "Blue-Print for Citizenship". Speaking on the "Declaration of Human Rights", accepted by 48 countries, Mr. Robinson wondered if our country truly recognize the statutes, where religious and color distinctions often prevail. "We have the blue-print for the future and we must live up to it."

Dr. Percival then installed the ten elected members of the new executive. Your delegate had the honor of being in this group as a Regional Vice-President, representing the North Central part of the Province. With this impressive ceremony, the 1950 Convention of the Alberta Federation of Home and School Associations came to an official close.

The part which films may play in education and enjoyment was presented as illustrated as the delegates were shown an Alberta-made picture, "How

ADVERTISING EDUCATIONAL

There are many forms of advertising today and we might say that all of them are educational, for they impart knowledge to those who read them. Read the advertisements and see how interesting these can be and how much they tell you that you never knew before.

HOME SAFETY

Accident statistics show that the most dangerous place of all is the home. Accident hazards such as cluttered stairways, loose rugs, unsafe wiring and improperly placed dangerous drugs abound in many homes. Make your home a safer place to live in by making sure the common trouble spots are cleared.

"A model husband, mine," she boasts.

But every job he shirks . . . Whatever model he may be, it isn't one that works.

A woman had frowned on her husband for days. Then, like a burst of sunshine from a cloudy sky, she smiled. "Does that mean you forgive me, honey?" her husband asked.

"Get away you," she replied, "I was just reading my face."

"Sweetheart," she said, coyly, "when we are married you won't expect me to give up all my spinster ways, will you?"

"Why, no, darling," he replied. "Indeed, it will be a good idea to consider some of them—getting your pocket money from your father, for instance."

The nervous woman sought out the captain of the ship at the start of the voyage. "My husband is susceptible to seasickness, Captain," she said. "Could you let him wait to be in case of an attack?"

"Don't worry lady," said the captain. "He'll do fine."

It was decided that the Home and School take charge of the books the day of the track meet on May 23rd.

Mrs. D. Polkina, Mrs. C. Cranston and Mr. D. Miller were appointed to make all necessary arrangements.

The President then introduced Mrs. E. A. Pitman Jr. who attended the Home and School Convention at Olds.

She gave a very informative report stating that there were Home and School organizations in eight provinces and that membership had increased greatly in the last three years.

She pointed out that there were in the majority at the convention, as they are at our local meetings.

It used to be that children were taught only at Home and School and church but now there are so many other sources—movies, radio, etc., from which the children learn many unworthy things. It was the hope of the convention that these could soon be controlled and that crime stories and such things which leave bad impressions could be abolished.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. E. A. Pitman.

The next meeting will be on May 25 at the school.

Half-Finished, Work Stopped on Memorial Hospital

Planned as a memorial to World War II heroes, the hospital at Trenton, Ont. was half finished and padlocked. Building stopped after $350,000 had been spent and when it was found that it would cost $150,000 more to complete. CHEESE IN THE MAIN DISH

Cheese is often called "A Food of Quality". Few foods can be used in such a variety of ways as cheese in the luncheon, supper or dinner menu. Because of its high protein content, cheese is in the same class of food as meat, fish, poultry and eggs and, since it is usual to depend upon the main course to supply the protein for the meal, the principal use of cheese should be in this role. However, in meals which would otherwise be somewhat lacking in protein, cheese may be served in the salad, dessert or even soup course to make up the deficiency.

"Cheddar" is the principal type of cheese made in Canada. It is commonly called Canadian cheese or just cheddar and is sold according to age as new (mild, medium, and old (sharp). The age of the cheese affects both flavour and price but not its food value.

To counterbalance the concentrated nature of cheese, it should be combined in the meal with bulky foods such as fruits and green leafy vegetables. Since it is rich in fat, cheese should be served with starchy accompaniments such as bread, cereals and potatoes which aid in the digestion of the fat. Because of the high percentage of fat, cheese is slowly digested which may account for the erroneous belief that it is indigestible.

When making cheese sauce, add the cheese at the last and cook only until melted. Any "undigested" mixture of cheese, eggs and milk to be cooked in the oven should be oven-poached in a moderate oven. "Oven-poach" until set.

For a "cheese" dish, place the cheese in a pan of hot water and bake it in a moderate (350 deg. F.) oven until a knife, inserted in the centre, comes out clean. Scalloped or other "cheese" dishes made with cooked foods should be baked in a moderate (350 deg. F.) or moderately hot (375 deg. F.) oven for only sufficient time to thoroughly heat the mixture.

Onion - Cheese Pie

- 1/2 cup melted shortening (lard butter)
 - 1/4 cup fine unsalted cracker crumbs
 - 2 1/2 cups thinly sliced onions
 - 1 1/2 cups milk
 - 1 egg
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - 2 cups grated medium Cheddar cheese
- Mix melted shortening with cracker crumbs and press into a greased deep 8-inch pie plate. Fry onions in butter until tender, then place on crumb crust. Scald milk and slowly add to the slightly beaten eggs, stirring constantly. Add salt, pepper and grated cheese. Mix well and pour over onions. Bake in a moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F., until a silver knife inserted in the centre comes out clean, about 45 to 48 minutes.

Cheese Scallops

- 4 tablespoons fat
 - 4 tablespoons flour
 - Salt and pepper
 - 2 cups milk
 - 1 cup grated cheese
 - OR 2 cups spaghetti and 1 cup spaghetti, potatoes, celery, corn or peas
 - OR 4 cups cooked vegetables
 - OR 2 cups spaghetti and 1 cup celery, corn, cabbage or peas.
 - Bread crumbs
- Make a cream sauce of fat, flour, seasonings and milk. When cooked, add grated cheese. Place alternate layers of spaghetti, etc. and cheese sauce in a greased baking dish. Cover with crumbs and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 deg. F., until thoroughly heated, about 30 minutes.

Red Cross Provides Instruction and Supplies For Veteran's Hospitals

The Canadian Red Cross Society's Arts and Crafts program in veterans' hospitals is commended by the Department of Veterans' Affairs as being of great value to the participants. D. Lang, chairman of the Arts and Crafts committee told delegates from all provinces at the annual meeting of Central Council here this week.

Provision of free instructional material for the first project of domiciliary care patients, who are in the main without sufficient income to purchase materials is part of the Society's effort to extend the program. Many of these patients, through the sale of their first piece of work are able to buy materials for larger projects they may wish to undertake.

Successful sales of veterans' handicrafts have been held in many communities, which has resulted in a larger number of World War I patients participating in the program.

Last year, 18,731 veteran and civilian patients took part and 46,818 projects were completed.

Showing of films in veterans' hospitals, begun in 1946, in cooperation with I.V.A., was a major activity last year according to the report of chairman John A. Cooper. Between one and three programs were given weekly to 69 institutions and 1,976 individual patients.

During the four year period of operation the Society qualified over 6,000 instructors; 124,000 were enrolled in safety classes, with 20,000 qualifying for the awards. Swimming for the handicapped has developed in some provinces where the blind are most enthusiastic participants.

First Aid instruction was given in five provinces, according to Dr. Urquhart, with 94 standard courses in operation. The Society maintains 124 First Aid posts in P.E.I., Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Saskatchewan, and, in addition, co-operates with the St. John Ambulance and the Ontario Motor League in Ontario to operate 69 posts and with the St. John Ambulance Association and the government to operate 46 posts in Manitoba.

Records show 14,244 letters written in handling thousands of inquiries through the National Red Cross Bazaar, Director.

Enquiries mostly emanating through the International Tracing Service of the International Red Cross Office, came from such places as DP camps in Germany, Berlin, Munich, Cairo, Egypt, Tel-Aviv, Israel, Karachi, India, Hong-Kong, Singapore, Malaya and Indo-China.

The British Red Cross Society is handling international relief for the Canadian Society, since the closing of the Overseas Office in London, England, after 10 years of active service. R. W. Frost, Overseas Commissioner, reported.

The Same Old Spring

It's the same old spring this year—lots of talk of the green buds bursting, the beautiful gardens well all have, if everything comes up, the same old spring is just around the corner. Yes, it's the same old spring with the damp, unsettled weather, one or two bright days to give fresh hope to "lazing" spirits, and have inevitable spring colds.

Spring is much overrated as far as weather and health are concerned. But it does carry with it the promise of better things to come. The fact that "hope springs eternal in the human heart" may have something to do with our yearning after the good things of better things to come.

One thing is certain, we get out of life what we put into it, and the same is true of springtime. If we look upon it as a time when Nature does a bit of refurbishing, and pitch in ourselves, we're bound to get something from this pleasant season. If we just sit back in the hope that Nature will do the entire job, we'll be into summer and once again spring will have fallen far short of expectations.

National Beautification Campaign, May 18th to May 27th, presents a golden opportunity to give Nature a helping hand. Of course, there's always digging to be done, and seeds to be planted, but this year why not put a little extra something into the gardening program? There's probably better than that, better looking, up and painting, or an old pool shed that's been an eyesore for years, and threatens momentarily to fall down. Why not pull it down? You'll be surprised at the extra space you'll have in the garden, and most of the stuff you had stored in the shed was junk after all. A bonfire is indicated, and once you get going, you'll be encouraged to clean out all the odds and ends in the basement that have accumulated over the long winter months.

We all have our own approach to these jobs when we get down to them, but most of the time we tend to procrastinate. The Beautification Campaign, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada, is a great asset in overcoming the mental block which prevents us from doing something about these tedious chores. It seems to be easier to get down to repairing the back porch stairs that have been gradually wearing out from old age, and touching them up with a spot of paint, if we can say, "Well, the Beautification Campaign starts on May 18th—that day I'll get that new board in the stairs, and the next day I'll paint them."

Yes, a schedule is a wonderful thing. Nature operates on a pretty rigid one, and seems to get fair results. Why not work out a "beautification" schedule for yourself and family right now! The opening gun will be fired on May 18th—from there on, you're on your own, that is with the possible exception of a spot of assistance from Mother Nature. Of course, she's been around a long time, and can get along quite satisfactorily without our assistance—but it's surprising how much better job she does when we lend a helping hand.

FROZEN FOODS

Frozen food is becoming more and more popular in Canada. In several centres cold lockers are available for rent and a number of people can also freeze their food at home, says a press release from the Experimental Station, Morden, Manitoba. It is assumed that each member of a family requires not less than 5 cubic feet of refrigerated space for his food.

On the other hand, it would seem that a cold room 15 to 20 cubic feet occupies too much space in an ordinary house. That is probably why it is anticipated that the average family will in future have a medium-sized cold room supplemented by additional refrigerated space in a public locker plant in order to meet its requirements.

Another factor in favour of the average size home refrigerated room is that the housekeeper is not prone to make too many trips to the cold storage. The same report points out that a very suitable cold room can be built by an ordinary handyman.

Certain farmers prefer a cold room large enough to store both their food articles and perishable products, such as milk intended for sale. This is possible, but the problem would be to find a place on the farm that would be readily accessible and suited to these purposes. Therefore, it would be wise to take the advice of an expert before undertaking to build a refrigerated room on the farm.

CUTS AND SCRATCHES

Cuts and scratches are unimportant only when they are properly cared for. Even minor wounds should be carefully washed and sterilized and protected from dirt and germs. Carelessness may lead to infection which can often be serious.
